

Adrienne Parker

Adrienne is head of Pinsent Masons' Perth office in Western Australia and is a disputes specialist focused on the infrastructure and energy and resources sector.

She acts in large-scale complex disputes in many jurisdictions, including arbitrations (international and domestic) and court proceedings in relation to contract mining, construction of plants, oil and gas facilities and major commercial building and infrastructure projects. She also advises on complex and high value adjudication applications under the security of payment regime in Australia.

Her experience includes major projects in Australia, South East Asia and Africa where she advises on procurement strategies and models, risk assessment and management, preparing and negotiating all forms of contract and providing ongoing advice during the life of the project, as well as dispute avoidance and resolution strategies.

Adrienne is the Chair of the Joint Law Council of Australia and Law Society of Western Australia Construction and Infrastructure Law Committee and affiliated with many arbitration institutions and initiatives in Australia.
