

Navigating rough seas

Insights into arbitration trends and issues relating to offshore petroleum, shipping, decommissioning and blue bonds in Australia

The offshore environment is rife with isolation, jurisdictional ambiguity, and technical enigma. Multinational disputes are the norm. The ever increasing scrutiny on energy supply and environmental issues mean this area is demanding global attention.

Join us for an illuminating panel discussion during Australian Arbitration Week in Perth on the nuances of maritime related disputes and arbitration, with a special focus on Australia's perspective.

Our panel of distinguished experts will explore the latest trends shaping the offshore arbitration landscape, and dissect evolving practices and challenges across sectors such as shipping, offshore petroleum, decommissioning, and blue bonds.

Don't miss this chance to be part of an enlightening dialogue that shapes the future of this evolving area of international arbitration.

Register now to secure your spot at this premier panel event.
